

ABSTRACT

5 The present invention provides compound libraries that can be rapidly and efficiently synthesized for use in lead discovery and design, and can be easily expanded for further drug discovery. The present invention also provides methods of using such compound libraries to design and identify novel drug leads.